THIS WEEK

Dear Parents,

Happy September! I can't believe August is over and we are already in September.

Last Friday I had the eaglets sit against the wall outside the classroom. They closed their eyes, while I went inside and lit the candle and oil lamps. I wish you could have seen their excitement and the wonder in their eyes. We sat around the table and explored various items that provided us with light. The eaglets were super attentive! I hope to create more situations where the kids experience this wonder and hopefully this will build an excitement for learning!
